PARTICIPANT COMMENT

„I give Boris high marks for his professionalism and level of engagement with his audience. Boris is clearly a master of a unique subject matter and was able to blend an explanation of the science behind the topic with an engaging and humorous presentation style that allowed the audience to learn something while having fun. His opening includes a demonstration of his memory skills where he recalls up to 50 names to faces of people he just met in the few minutes preceding his presentation. This grabs the audience from minute one. Of six external speakers presenting at the conference, Boris' session received the most buzz and positive feedback. I would absolutely consider a return engagement and I understand my company has already engaged Boris for other events.“
